

ELECTROCUTED
THREE IN ROWTook 23 Minutes to Perform
Triple Execution

AT SING SING, N. Y., TO-DAY

All Three Executions Proceeded Without Accident or Delay, and Event Was
First of Kind in History of Sing Sing Prison.

Ossining, N. Y., Nov. 20.—Three murderers were electrocuted in Sing Sing prison to-day. They were Pietro Faletto of Port Chester, Frank Schermerhorn of Millbrook and Bert L. Brown of Rye. The electrocution lasted only 23 minutes. It was the first triple electrocution at Sing Sing since the electric current superseded the gallows in New York state. All three executions proceeded without accident or delay. Schermerhorn murdered Sarah Brymer, a nurse, employed by Barnes Compton, also the family coachman; Brown killed William Brown, his half brother, and Faletto cut Louis Levine's throat in Levine's store at Port Chester.

ENGINE "WENT CRAZY"
IN LOWELL YARDCame Out of Roundhouse and Ditched
Another Engine, Then Dashed Back
Into Roundhouse and Went Through the Wall.

Lowell, Mass., Nov. 20.—Through a strange freak, which railroad mechanics have not been able to explain, Boston & Maine engine No. 1339 went on a rampage yesterday, wandered out of the roundhouse, threw another locomotive from the track and then, changing its mind, backed into the roundhouse and right through the brick wall, ending up on its back in Hale's brook.

Engine 1339 came in from its usual daily run late Saturday, and was backed into its stall, and after being cleaned up and its fire boxes banked for the night, was left alone. No one, so far as the railroad authorities have been able to learn, went near the Mogul from that moment until a daring engineer climbed over the engine as it lay on its back in the brook to shut off the steam.

Only a few men were around the roundhouse on Howard street when the iron monster, with a sudden tremble and explosion of steam, started from its stall. Passing through the door, the engine started for the main track, but a heavy freight locomotive blocked its path. With one stroke 1339 tossed its fellow from the path, dashed, snorted a few times and then started back as suddenly as it came. The watching railroad men expected to see the monster stop in its stall and then wake up, but it didn't. Instead, it crashed, tender first, through the double brick wall at the rear. The tender dropped off about twelve feet into the brook, followed by the locomotive itself, which landed on top.

Railroad men who investigated declare the throttle was set at the neutral point, which would mean that the engine should stand still. The only explanation which they have to offer is that the engine "went crazy."

Superstitious railroad men say the number of the engine was at fault. No. 1339 comprises a "13" and a multiple of 13—159.

THIN ICE FATALITIES.

Two Boys Were Drowned at Adams, Mass., Yesterday.

Adams, Mass., Nov. 20.—Thin ice claimed two victims here yesterday, boys of 8 and 9 years. A brother of one of the two narrowly escaped death when he sought to effect a rescue and his father was taken from the water suffering with cramps after he had brought the third boy ashore and recovered the two bodies.

Richard Symanski, aged 9, and Peter Griffin, aged 8, were the boys drowned. They, in company with half a dozen others of about their own age, were sliding on the ice at Allen's pond. The ice was so thin it sagged beneath them, but this only added to the excitement. Symanski and Griffin were taking the turn across the treacherous "bender" when the ice gave way and they disappeared from sight in six feet of water.

Alfred Symanski, aged 11, who was in the party, jumped into the water and attempted to save his brother and friend but was unable to and was in danger of drowning himself when someone on shore threw a piece of plank to him. None of the watchers, however, made any attempt to reach the struggling boys until Gottlieb Symanski, the father, arrived and although he could not swim, he waded into the water without hesitation. First the father brought his son, Alfred, ashore. Then he picked up the Griffin boy and carried him to shore but life was extinct. His other son had disappeared from sight but the father returned and standing in water nearly up to his head, worked his feet under until he reached the little boy and brought it to the surface. Before he could reach shore he was overcome with cramps and he in turn had to be dragged from the water.

TAFT AFTER TRUSTS.

Taken Action On Nearly As Many As Roosevelt Did in Seven Years.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 20.—President Taft's administration promises to break the Roosevelt record for the number of trust prosecutions. More actions against alleged illegal combinations have been instituted during the past five months than during the entire term of any other president, except Colonel Roosevelt. While the Taft trust record is more than a year to run, its record already nearly equals that during the seven years Roosevelt was in office.

CAUSED BIG PANIC.

When Heavy Sea Struck Joy Line Steamer Yesterday.

New York, Nov. 20.—The Joy line steamer Tennessee, which put in at New London early yesterday with her bow smashed in, reached New York safely last night, with all but one of her 200 passengers on board. The missing passenger left the boat when it docked and proceeded on his way by train.

The Tennessee bound for New York from Providence was making her usual headway although the waves were running high when at midnight an unusually heavy sea struck the boat head-on, smashing in 30 feet of the bow on both sides above the water line. A majority of the passengers had retired to their state rooms for the night and when the crash came there was a wild scramble for the deck. For a time a general panic was threatened but Captain Enos managed to restore quiet. Rather than take chances, Captain Enos put into the harbor at New London and docked, where temporary repairs were made. When the passengers saw the comparatively small damage they returned to their state-rooms.

SAVED FROM
OCEAN'S RAGEFour Men Were Taken From Barge Helen A. Wyman

AND LANDED AT NEW LONDON

But One Sailor and a Baby Were Lost from the Barge Vermont Which Was Wrecked off Block Island
During Great Storm.

New York, Nov. 20.—Four men aboard the barge Helen A. Wyman, which was wrecked yesterday near Block Island, were rescued and landed at New London. Information was received here to-day from the captain of the tug Mary E. Scully, which made the rescue ten hours before the barge sank. When the barge Vermont, was wrecked off Block Island Friday night, one sailor and a baby were drowned, according to the president of the company which owned the vessel. The captain of the Vermont and his wife were rescued.

Laden with coal, the Helen A. Wyman was bound for Boston from a southern port with the barge Shenandoah, in tow of the tug John S. Scully of New York. During the heavy gale in the morning, the barges broke apart. The Shenandoah was later picked up by the Scully and anchored outside Newport harbor.

Although the tugs searched for the lost barge, no trace of her was found until long after daybreak when she was discovered nearly 12 miles southwest of Block Island, an abandoned wreck.

SHIP POUNDED TO PIECES

After Being Blown on the Rocks Off
Connecticut Shore.

Westbrook, Conn., Nov. 20.—Blown on to the rocks of Menunkataut point early yesterday the two masted schooner Henry H. Willis was pounded to pieces and the wife and child of Captain Otto Pauner of Riverside, R. I., the owner, killed by exposure. The captain and one member of the crew were rescued.

The schooner took refuge off Buck island Saturday night and while riding out the storm broke an anchor chain and drifted on the rocks. The four occupants of the boat lashed themselves to the top of the cabin, where the captain's wife, Harriet, and his little girl, Pauline, died from exposure. Captain Pauner stated that he burned signals of distress and also spoke to a schooner anchored nearby but that no assistance was offered him.

TWO DEATHS IN RUTLAND.

John A. Quilty and Mrs. Ransom Clark,
Elderly People.

Rutland, Nov. 20.—The deaths of two of Rutland's elderly people occurred yesterday afternoon. John A. Quilty, a veteran of the Civil war, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Clara E. Bassett, after a short illness with neuritis, and Mrs. Ransom Clark died at her home as the result of a shock suffered a few days ago. Mrs. Clark was 82 years old and she had lived all her life in this city. She is survived by four daughters, Misses Emma and Julia Clark of Rutland, Mrs. George Maxwell of Glover, Ore., and Mrs. T. M. Barrett of Portland, Ore., and one sister, Mrs. Lucy Segar of Chicago.

John A. Quilty was born in Shoreham in 1836. He formed a volunteer company in Brandon in 1869, the year after he graduated from Troy Conference academy in Poughkeepsie, and in 1880 this company disbanded nearly every member enlisted and went to the war. Mr. Quilty served as first lieutenant in the 2nd Vermont battery and after the war was over served as quartermaster at Charleston, S. C. He was a member of Roberts post, G. A. R., of this city and the veterans will have charge of the funeral services.

WHISKEY BREATHS EXCEPTIONAL.

In National House Said Congressman
Plumley Yesterday.

Burlington, Nov. 20.—Congressman Frank Plumley of Northfield addressed a good-sized audience in the W. C. T. U. temple yesterday afternoon on the general subject of temperance. In particular he told of the high level of temperance in both houses of the national legislature. He said that most of the men he knew in Congress were abstemious if not abstinent as regards the use of liquor. Even in the House of Representatives, which has the reputation of being a little more skittish than the Senate, it is the exceptional thing to meet a whiskey-breath. Our legislators in appearance, action and mental qualities, show the result of years of sobriety.

Mr. Plumley said that if conditions in Vermont and in the country generally improve in the next forty years as in the last, we shall have practical temperance. He said he was an optimist because he believed a pessimist never did anything in this world but scare men out of things they were about to do. A pessimist, he said, had been described as a man who, as between two evils, chooses both.

For the next five days we will sell rifles and guns at reduced prices. Eastman Bros.

RAILROADS GRANTED
RAISE TO OTHERS, TOOBesides Those Who Had Presented Demands on Montpelier & Wells River and Barre Railroads for an Increase of Wages.

Settlement of the labor demands on the Montpelier & Wells River and the Barre railroads was reached at the conference at Montpelier, which was concluded Saturday evening, by which liberal concessions are made to the men in the way of increased wages. It is understood that the engineers and shopmen were not making demands upon the company at this time and were not represented in the conferences with the national labor union officers, but the company has, nevertheless, made a readjustment of the wages of the engineers and the shopmen upon its own motion, and engineers and shopmen will, therefore, receive a considerable increase of pay as a result of the company's unsolicited concessions.

Vice President C. H. Sines of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, who has been in the vicinity some time working for better terms for the employees, gives the following statement of the negotiations:

"Following a meeting between President Byrnes and the officials of the three organizations interested, namely, conductors, trainmen and firemen, which took place in Boston Wednesday last, negotiations were entered into Friday between General Manager Stanyan and Superintendent of Motive Power Whelan for the company and Vice President C. H. Sines, Vice President C. H. Sines and Vice President P. J. McNamara for the three organizations, respectively, representing the employees of the road.

"These negotiations were concluded late Saturday evening at a meeting at which President Byrnes and Vice President Folsom were present in addition to the above named officials.

"As a result of these negotiations a contract was drawn up embracing numerous rules covering working conditions which will immediately improve the working conditions of the employees in addition to these rules the following increases in pay were granted to the men:

"Suburban train conductors $1, brakemen 50 cents and firemen 80 cents per day.

"All other train service conductors 50 cents, brakemen 25 cents and baggage-men 35 cents per day.

"Local train firemen 40 cents, mixed train 54 cents, passenger train 82 cents, yard firemen 40 cents per day.

"Barre Hill conductors 50 cents and brakemen 75 cents per day.

"The percentage increases in train service run from 16-23 per cent to 40 per cent, for conductors, 11 per cent to 15 per cent, for brakemen and from 17 per cent to 44 per cent, for firemen.

"In yard service: Conductors 8 per cent to 16 per cent, brakemen 29 per cent to 33-1/3 per cent, and firemen 22-1/2 per cent. Firemen doing shop work 33-1/3 per cent.

"At the present time overtime is paid in no case after the men have been on duty 11 hours and 41 minutes. Under the terms of this, their first contract, effective November 26, overtime will be paid after 10 hours with the exception of two runs upon which the rate of daily pay is fixed to cover the hours of service.

"This 10-hour day feature of the contract means that when overtime is earned the above percentage increases will be advanced by about 10 per cent.

"While the increases above noted were not quite all the men desired, they are fairly well satisfied with the outcome believing it better to make some sacrifice than to inconvenience the general public and cause some money loss to the company as well as possible suffering to themselves and their families which would have necessarily followed had the gone on strike.

"At the conclusion of the conference President Byrnes announced to the brotherhood officials that he had decided since settling with them to increase the pay of the shop employees and he would also call in the engineers and increase their pay.

"The negotiations were conducted in an extremely harmonious manner, the several officials participating showing a disposition and desire to deal with the men as equals, and with the consideration of the limited resources of the road and the recently announced reductions of passenger fares.

"The officers of the three brotherhoods desire to take this opportunity of thanking the press for its impartial presentation of the facts to the public and also for the courteous treatment received from those of the public with whom they have come in contact."

STRUCK BY BULLET.

John Grace of Fair Haven Lacerated by a Spent Ball.

Rutland, Nov. 20.—A stray bullet from a rifle in the hands of some boys who were shooting at a target wounded John Grace of Fair Haven yesterday. The lead missile had traveled some distance, and it struck Mr. Grace a glancing blow on the chest, inflicting a slight flesh wound, but doing no harm otherwise, outside of the nervous condition the man was left in.

The boys were shooting at a target over a quarter of a mile away and it is probable that only the bullets either missed the mark or else glanced off the target was practically at the end of its journey when it struck Mr. Grace.

ACCUSED OF THEFT.

James McDermott Was Arrested To-day
by Sheriff Tracy.

Sheriff Tracy arrested a man named Charles G. McDermott to-day on the charge of stealing some money, a revolver and various articles of wearing apparel from Timothy Glennon of Northfield Falls yesterday. It is alleged that McDermott went to Glennon's house in search of a job and that he stayed there until Glennon was asleep on the porch, when it is alleged he emptied the latter's pocketbook and left with other things. The wearing apparel included leggings, stockings and underwear. State's Attorney Carver will file an information against McDermott.

YALE YOUTHS
NOT SO WICKEDAlleged Rioters of Saturday
Night Exonerated To-day

BY DEAN OF THE FACULTY

It Is Possible, Too, That Their Cases
May Never Come Up in Court—They Were Continued To-day Till Next Saturday.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 20.—The cases of the six Yale university undergraduates, who were arrested during a disturbance outside the Hyperion theatre Saturday night, were not called in court to-day. It was arranged that the hearings, if held, shall be Saturday. Meanwhile, an inquiry will be opened by both the police and the college authorities. It is believed that the charges against the students will be not pressed. Dean Jones of the college to-day officially exonerated the students, who were arrested, from responsibility in the disturbance.

The audience in the theatre had been a happy and jubilant one until, about 9:30 o'clock, the student body and Yale alumni joining heartily in the singing of college songs which the chorus of Gaby Desly's company had started. The Yale men had been asked to join in the songs and one of the actors left the stage to direct the singing. The audience was dumfounded when the curtain went down after the first act and announcement made that the play had ended. Chief of Police Cowles says he had not ordered the play curtailed, although he had given instructions to the police captain on duty there to stop the play if it was found to be indecent, complaints alleging this having come to Chief Cowles.

The Start of the Riot.

Manager Eldridge, who represents the Shuberts in the management of the theatre, claims that the trouble was due to Chief Cowles ordering everything out of the piece but the music. He attributed the riot to the demand of the students that they be given the entire performance. The damage to the theatre is placed at several hundred dollars, some furnishings in the boxes having been demolished when thrown upon the footlights, chandeliers broken, the drop curtain punctured and some scenery hurt by the water thrown upon it.

Even on the street the disturbance was the worst in several years and followed an effort of a police sergeant with a squad of men to clear the sidewalk of the college side directly in front of the Vanderbilt dormitory.

The arrests had centered around Louis Bomelsdorff, a brother of Yale's varsity right end. Most of the other arrests were due to efforts made to protect Bomelsdorff. An arrest for which the police later apologized was that of an attorney of New York City, who had sought information from an officer.

Dean Jones bailed out the attorney, who demanded an apology, which was at once given, and the charge withdrawn.

The audience was not made up wholly of Yale men. Many women and men of the city's society circles, who had been guests for the game, were among those present. A considerable number of gowns are said to have been marred by the water from the fire service in the theatre.

HIS DEATH A SHOCK.

Walter R. Davis of Chelsea Ended His Own Existence.

Chelsea, Nov. 20.—The community was greatly shocked and saddened Friday afternoon by the death of Walter R. Davis, the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester M. Davis, who had ended his own life by hanging at the home of his parents while his parents were absent from home during a portion of the afternoon. Upon their return home between four and five o'clock, they found the fire had burned out and no chores were done at the barn, and Mrs. Davis went to his room, where she found his lifeless body suspended by a rope. Mr. Davis, the father, immediately cut the rope and a physician was hastily summoned but he found that life had been extinct for probably over an hour.

The deceased, who was twenty-one years old, while of an extremely retiring nature was a most exemplary young man and held in the highest esteem by every one who knew him. It is understood that he left a long letter to his parents in which he stated that no one was to blame for his act but that he alone was responsible and that he had decided to end his life after long and mature deliberation which had led him to decide and believe that he did not want to live longer.

The funeral was held from his late home Sunday afternoon, when the date was filled with mourning friends and sympathizing neighbors, who feel that in his untimely end the community has met with a substantial loss. Rev. J. A. Lawrence officiated and the service was assisted by Rev. Paul Thatcher. The interment was in the family lot in Highland cemetery and the bearers were three brothers, Charles Davis and Wesley Davis of Washington and Herman Davis of Barre City and a brother-in-law, Will A. Reed, of this town. Besides the parents and three brothers mentioned he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Chester D. Clough of Wilder, Mrs. Will A. Reed and Mrs. Jessie Davis, both of this town, all of whom with the exception of Mrs. Clough were present at the funeral.

KICKED IN THE FACE
BY FRACTION HORSEA. J. Paquette, Summer Street Blacksmith, Had Nose Smashed in by Animal To-day.

A. Joseph Paquette, one of the proprietors of a Summer street blacksmith shop, was severely injured shortly before noon today, when a fractious horse, belonging to Charles Zanon, kicked him in the face. Mr. Paquette was engaged in shoeing a horse a few feet from the door, when the Zanon horse, standing close by, kicked him full in the face. Although the hoof of the heavy horse sent the blacksmith against the wall, he remained unconscious and directed that he be taken to the city hospital.

In the meantime, Drs. M. D. Lamb and J. W. Stewart were summoned and a passing team was drafted to take the injured man to the hospital. On account of the quantities of blood streaming from the face, the physicians in attendance could make but a superficial examination before reaching the hospital.

This afternoon it was learned that beyond a fracture of the upper portion of the nose, Mr. Paquette had escaped serious injury. It is likely that he will remain at the hospital for a few days to receive treatment.

ASKS TO END
PASTORATERev. W. E. Braister Presented
Resignation Yesterday

TO BARRE BAPTIST CHURCH

He Has Received Urgent Call to Baptist
Church at Oneida, N. Y.—Local Church Will Take Action on Matter Thursday Evening.

A decided surprise was given the members and adherents of the First Baptist church yesterday when their pastor, Rev. W. E. Braister, presented his resignation, asking that it be accepted so that he could go to the First Baptist church at Oneida, N. Y., from which society he has received an unsolicited and urgent call. No action was taken yesterday, but the finance committee has called a church meeting for Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, directly after the weekly prayer meeting.

Rev. Mr. Braister has been the pastor of the local church for four years, coming from Antrim, N. H., and during the period of his service here he has been very successful both in building up the spiritual life of the church and in adding to the material equipment of the society, the latter including the exterior finishing of the building with brick, the acquisition of a valuable pipe organ and also a piano.

The call to the Oneida church, which is somewhat larger than the Barre society of the Baptist denomination, was a surprise to Rev. Mr. Braister and was at first refused; but after being repeated was accepted. Rev. Mr. Braister's letter of resignation, as read yesterday, is as follows:

The Letter of Resignation.

To the First Baptist Church, Barre, Vt.,
Nov. 18, 1
